Optional Afternoon Activities

Although formal programming ends with lunch, some departments are offering sessions in the afternoon.

Biomedical Engineering Showcase — 2:00-3:00pm
Did you know Carolina offers Biomedical Engineering? With over half of our graduates in top medical schools and Biomedical Engineering programs across the country, our alumni are distinguishing themselves as researchers, doctors, teachers and engineers. Come see demonstrations of student design projects followed by Q&A with students & faculty.

Music Department Office Hours — 2:00-3:00pm
Wish to study music and specialize in performance, composition, history or theory? Are you interested in performing in bands, choirs, orchestra, jazz ensembles or popular music groups? Would you like to know more about a variety of musical styles and their cultural significance? Students of all majors are able to continue their music involvement through a variety of classes and performance opportunities at Carolina. Join us to learn more.

Model Dorm Room — 1:00-5:00pm
Housing and Residential Education will open the Model Dorm Room in Craige Residence Hall. Tour a furnished and decorated suite-style residence hall room which is a very typical assignment for the First Year Experience. Note: As an entry-level residence hall, this is the most basic type of residence hall room on campus—it only gets better from here!

Romance Languages Showcase — 2:00-3:30pm
Join us for a showcase with a formal presentation with handouts for Spanish, Italian, French and Portuguese—all 4 for Romance Studies (former Romance Languages and Literatures). This session will allow for more one-on-one engagement with faculty.

Economics Open House — 4:00-5:00pm
The Economics Department offers compelling teaching, cutting-edge research, and dynamic entrepreneurship to the University community and the people of the state of North Carolina, just as it has since its creation in 1901. Join us to learn more.

School of Information & Library Science Open House — 2:00-4:00pm
Interested in becoming a part of one of the fastest growing fields in the US? UNC SILS majors have one of the highest rates of employment. Join us to learn how we address the impact of social media on society, consumer health information, metadata, cyber infrastructure, and more. Faculty, staff, and students will be on hand to answer questions.

Although formal programming ends with lunch, some departments are offering sessions in the afternoon.

EXPLORE CAROLINA \ April 20, 2015

The UNC campus and surrounding area offer many opportunities to learn, discover, play and eat great food! Listed below are some popular points of interest we hope you’ll explore.

Carolina Men’s Basketball Museum
The Carolina Men's Basketball Museum features artifacts, videos, photos, statistical and historical panels that highlight the history of the Carolina Basketball program. The museum experience begins with a six-minute theater presentation and also includes interactive presentations highlighting Carolina’s championships and many of the greatest games and most exciting finishes in Tar Heel history. Open from 10:00 am to 4:00 pm.

Carolina Women’s Basketball Museum
The Carolina Women's Basketball Museum is located off the main lobby of the newly renovated Carmichael Arena. Opened in December of 2010, the museum includes many exhibits and artifacts on the history of the Carolina women's basketball program and features the team's nine ACC championships, three NCAA Tournament Final Four appearances, and 1994 NCAA Tournament Championship. Open from 8:00 am to 5:00 pm.

Coker Arboretum
Fondly known by many as a quiet haven in the middle of UNC's busy campus, the Coker Arboretum was started by UNC professor William Chambers Coker in 1903. The Arboretum was the first scientific collection of plants south of the Potomac River, and it continues to provide a beautiful and educational display of over 500 species of flora. Open from dawn to dusk.

Kenan Football Center and Hall of Honor
The Kenan Football Center Hall of Honor displays photographs, awards, trophies and artifacts detailing the rich and storied history of football at UNC. The 18 Carolina players who have been honored by placing their names and numbers on display in the stadium are also featured with special plaques, flags and audio-visual presentations. The James A. Heavner Theater shows seven dramatic videos presenting the history of UNC football. Open from 8:00 am to 5:00 pm.

The Robert and Sallie Brown Gallery and Museum
The Robert and Sallie Brown Gallery and Museum in the Sonja Haynes Stone Center for Black Culture and History is the primary venue for the exhibit of artwork portraying all dimensions of African American and African Diaspora cultures. Open from 9:00 am to 5:00 pm.

Sonja Haynes Stone Center for Black Culture & History
The Sonja Haynes Stone Center for Black Culture and History is part of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. As a center within the University’s Academic Affairs Division, we have a central role in supporting the University’s academic mission. We have a commitment to broaden the range of intellectual discourse about African-Americans and to encourage better understanding of peoples of the African diaspora and their perspectives on important social and cultural issues. Open from 9:00 am to 8:00 pm.

Carolina Indian Center
The American Indian Center is a campus-wide center that will advance the University's overall mission of research, teaching and public service by creating an environment in which quality research, scholarship, and engagement related to American Indians is strengthened, nurtured and coordinated. North Carolina is home to one of the largest Native populations in the eastern United States and the center serves as the University's front door to American Indian communities across the state and the nation. Open from 8:00 am to 5:00 pm.

Still have questions?
Throughout the day, admissions staff can be reached by phone at (919) 966-3621. Our office is open from 8am until 5pm, and you’re welcome to visit us in Jackson Hall if you need any assistance or have lingering questions. We’re happy to help!
