

Questions and Answers About the Waiting List

We recognize that waiting for a final decision can be difficult. In the meantime, we hope that you will find the below information helpful on what to expect.

When will I receive my final decision from the waiting list?

After our May 1 enrollment deadline for admitted students, it will take us some time to determine whether any spaces will be available. If spaces become available, we will review the applications of students who have accepted a place on our waiting list, and we will offer admission to the number we believe will complete the class. We may make several rounds of offers, but we promise we will notify students of their final decision no later than June 30.

What are my chances of being admitted from the waiting list?

Unfortunately, we are not able to predict any student's chances of being admitted. There has been little pattern from year to year in how many students are admitted from the waiting list, and we will not know whether we are able to admit students from the wait list until after the May 1 enrollment deadline for admitted students.

Nonetheless, the below chart provides the three most recent years of waiting list admission history by residency. While the numbers vary each year, the history provides some scope between the number of students who accept positions on the waiting list and the number of students who are ultimately offered admission.

Application Year	Number of students who were offered waiting list positions		Number of students who accepted positions on the waiting list		Number of students who were offered admission from the waiting list
	Residents	Nonresidents	Residents	Nonresidents	Residents	Nonresidents
Fall 2014	1,201	1,953	674	889	30	<5
Fall 2015	1,248	1,896	672	841	33	45
Fall 2016	1,402	2,584	788	1,236	66	20

Are candidates on the waiting list ranked?

Candidates on the waiting list are not ranked. If spaces become available, we will consider all students who have accepted a place on our waiting list.

If spaces become available, how will candidates be reviewed?

If spaces become available, we will review only those candidates who have indicated, through their ConnectCarolina Student Center, that they wish to remain on the waiting list. We will take into account our previous evaluation of their credentials as well as their final grades, if those grades are available.

Please note: Candidates who do not indicate that they wish to remain on the waiting list will not be considered and will receive no further decision.

Will an interview or additional letters of recommendation affect my chances of being admitted from the waiting list?

Unfortunately, we will not be able to interview our waiting list candidates. Should spaces become available, our review will focus primarily on your original application and on any additional grades you may submit.

What, if any, additional information should I submit?

If your school year ends before we notify you of your final decision, please send us your final transcript. Beyond these final grades, we do not recommend that you send additional materials.

If admitted, will I be eligible for financial aid and campus housing?

The priority deadline for the FAFSA and CSS/PROFILE need-based aid forms was March 1. Since grants, lower-interest loans, and funds for campus jobs are limited, they can usually be offered only to students who meet the March 1 deadline. If you met this deadline, you should be eligible for consideration for need-based aid. Please see <http://studentaid.unc.edu/> for additional information. If you are admitted, you should complete and submit the application for campus housing as soon as possible at housing.unc.edu. All first-year students, regardless of admission date, will be housed on campus or in Granville Towers.

What else should I do?

Again, to be considered for any spaces that may become available, you must indicate that you wish to accept a place on our waiting list no later than April 17, 2017. Log into your ConnectCarolina Student Center, and follow the steps that are provided in your online decision. As you wait for a final decision from us, we recommend that you select another college or university, and send that institution your enrollment deposit by its specified deadline.
